Type: Bus & walking tour

Duration: 4 to 5 hours

Theme: History, architecture

Languages: Serbian, English, French (other languages available at request)

The tour starts with a drive outside of town to Avala mountain, where we will see the Monument to an unknown hero, built in 1930s in honor of World War I fighters. After the monument, we will visit the Avala Tower (204m high), which was hit by 1999 NATO bombing and reconstructed in the period of 2006 – 2010. Coffee and photo break at the tower café with beautiful views of Belgrade on one side and Central Serbia and Sumadija hills on the other.

After a drive through the slopes of Avala, we reach the Kosutnjak Park and the restaurant Aleksandar – one of the most beautiful viewpoints in Belgrade and a place with the only ski-slope in Belgrade.

The tour continues and we reach one of the most important Belgrade landmarks – St. Sava Church. Possibility of climbing the highest terrace on the main cupola and seeing the Belgrade old city center from a different perspective.

In the following part of the tour we will cross the river, continue through New Belgrade and reach Zemun district and the Gardos Tower. Once a separate town altogether, Zemun has through its history belonged to Austro-Hungarian Empire and thus the Gardos Tower (also referred to as the Millennium Tower) was built in 1896. to mark a thousand years of Hungarian settlement in these areas. From the plateau in front of the tower we can enjoy the views of Zemun old town, cobble paved streets, Danube river and the Great War Island. Lunch break in Zemun promenade in one of the fish restaurants.

After lunch we will visit the Business Center Usce and a café at the 25th floor – a great view of the Kalemegdan Fortress and old city center across the river.

In the final part of the tour we reach the Belgrade Fortress. With over 2000 years of history, Kalemegdan Fortress is the most important Belgrade landmark, but at the same time a modern park and a true green oasis in the heart of town. During the fortress tour we will make a photo break at the Monument to French and Serbian friendship, built as a sign of Serbia's gratitude to France for their help during World War I.

The tour ends at the Victor monument, a wide plateau with stunning views of Sava and Danube rivers, the Great War Island and New Belgrade.

the way you look at things, the things you look at change.
Therefore,
experience different Belgrade observing it from its rooftops.
